He saw that all the struggles of life were incessant, laborious, painful, that nothing was done quickly, without labor,
that it had to undergo a thousand fondlings, revisitings, moldings,
addings, removings,
graftings, tearings,
correctings, smoothings, rebuildings, reconsiderings, nailings, tackings,
chippings, hammerings,
hoistings, connectings-- all the poor fumbling uncertain incompletions of human endeavor.
They went on forever
and were forever incomplete, far from perfect, refined, or smooth, full of terrible memories of failure and fears of failure,
yet,
in the way of things,
somehow noble,
complete,
and shining in the end.
